

GFAST.

PRODUCT SHEET

Four times faster than traditional FTTC broadband, ultrafast broadband that's widely available

For customers who want super-fast speeds, GFast is the ideal solution. Using fibre and copper connections, GFast can achieve speeds up to four times faster than FTTC. With the capability to handle a data-heavy workloads, it provides more than just the basic email and web browsing abilities of standard broadband.

WHAT IS GFAST?

GFast technology is like existing Fibre to The Cabinet (FTTC) services where fibre optic cables run to the street cabinet from the exchange and a copper telephone line connects the cabinet to the premise. GFast is designed to be used on only the shortest copper lines (sub 300m) and, therefore, can supercharge the speed through the copper telephone lines to the premise, providing a much faster and more reliable connection for your customers.
